

DOTTERER DYSGRAPHIA METHOD

Cheri Dotterer
Dysgraphia Consultant

Is illegible handwriting and spelling why students are failing expectations?

Illegible handwriting is a symptom of dysgraphia.

What is dysgraphia?

Dysgraphia is difficulty with handwriting, spelling and written expression.

It includes all aspects of writing from learning how to hold a pencil to writing essays and job-related tasks.

Confusion surrounding dysgraphia is just not right.

One in three individuals have some difficulty in this area.

No child should have to struggle with a writing disability.

It can be overcome with proper modifications.

Teachers need to worry about comfortably teaching all students.

Dysgraphia does not need to be a barrier to your students' education.

How we can help

Every child deserves a safe space to learn and grow.

Every program we develop, looks at the social-emotional development of the child.

Access to the learning process and design modifications and accommodations for the dysgraphic student can be tailored for the

- whole classroom
- small groups
- individual sessions

DOTTERER DYSGRAPHIA METHOD

This course is a companion to the book Handwriting Brain-Body DisConnect written by the instructor. The purpose of the course is to become proficient in understanding the types of dysgraphia and strategies that can be used inclusively in the classroom to enhance all students' social-emotional learning. Dive into the neuroscience of learning adjust it for when it doesn't fit the traditional student.

This course is NOT a handwriting curriculum.

- Target handwriting interventions
- Design collaborative coteaching experiences
- Create whole classroom/pull-out interventions
- Improve handwriting legibility and speed

Who should take this course?

Regular and Learning Support Teachers
Occupational Therapists

How is the course set up?

- ❖ Several video trainings 10-15 minutes each are dripped weekly over a 14-week period.
- ❖ Pre-/Post-test is included
- ❖ Weekly discussions questions
- ❖ Community participation and support
- ❖ Project: Case study portfolio

- ❖ Supplemental articles, videos, worksheets.

Handwriting Brain-Body DisConnect* is provided for bulk orders.

SUPPLEMENTAL MONTHLY PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

In addition to the Dotterer Dysgraphia Method, we offer ten supplemental professional development sessions that you can include in faculty meetings or a time of mutual availability .

This program is completed live virtually and reflects the needs of your school district.

This program includes topics such as:

- ❖ Similarities and difference with dyslexia and dyscalculia
- ❖ Auditory and Visual Memory
- ❖ Cognitive Focus and Flow
- ❖ Primitive reflexes and integration
- ❖ Preschool red flags
- ❖ Middle school needs
- ❖ High School needs
- ❖ Transition to college strategies
- ❖ Social-emotional learning
- ❖ Instructional coaching
- ❖ Response to Intervention

Why include the supplement?

- Handwriting factors are complex and deserve a holistic approach to students.
- These topics are related, but do not teach dysgraphia interventions.
- The social-emotional well-being of students is crucial to their success.

Please note that this program is not a stand-alone product. It is a supplement to The Method.

INSTRUCTIONAL COACHING FOR HANDWRITING

Our coach, Cheri Dotterer, uses a CROWN Model to approach instructional coaching model approach to support your staff.

Her goal is to develop an individualized partnership with each teacher or staff member.

Some members of your staff may prefer an active approach, others a more passive interaction, and still others a combination of the two.

Cheri utilizes her years of experience to maximize your faculty's understanding of dysgraphia interventions to maximize the transformation of your students.

CHOICE: Every individual has a choice to listen first. Cheri approaches your staff with the CHOICE to listen first and grow the self-awareness of faculty and their students.

RESILIENCY: Tenacity develops with confidence and courage.

ORGANIZING: Time management and material organization are struggles for many students. We explore how to maximize your outcomes.

WORTHINESS: Every faculty member, staff, and student was put here in your district for such a time as this. Every person is worthy. Self-improvement takes a growth mindset. Cheri helps your staff own their mindset.

NOVEL: Mundane routines turn off the brain. New and novel ideas awaken learning and teaching.

This add on is in-person. Cheri will spend one day per month (10 total) at your school to support instructional delivery of handwriting and dysgraphia needs.

YOUR INVESTMENT

How many of your students continue to struggle with spelling and written expression?

How many parents are coming to you asking for support that you cannot provide?

You may be thinking, we already have an English Language Arts curriculum.

We also have invested in a Structure Literacy program.

Investing in dysgraphia is the Next Best Steps to supporting those programs.

Your referrals for occupational therapy will decrease giving the therapist opportunities to support learners who truly need the support of skilled services.

Your staff will be better equipped to support struggling students and articulate concerns to colleagues and parents.

Financially, you will invest much less on your staff and external agencies because your teachers will be equipped with interventions for the whole classroom.

What others have said

“I found that it helped me be mindful in educating others and getting information to educators that they might not know about Specific Learning Disability, and Dysgraphia. I felt that the course had good literature to help with educating others. The book was valuable.”

Shawna Steinbrecher

“The roll-out of information was incredible. The way you organized this course contributed to the ease in which I could process and apply the information. I feel considerably more prepared to explain dysgraphia to other team members and support students.”

Hillary Davis
